The Estate Has Other Heirs in Madison.

Since our reference to the Argyle estate in our last issue we have learned that there are other citizens of our county who are descendants of the royal family and should the fortune come this way will be among the beneficiaries. Col. J. W. Caperton evidently inherited the many pearls and high sense of honor for which he is noted from this distinguished family. Judge T. J. Scott, who is conceded to be one of the best Circuit Judges in the State, is also a descendant, and his brother, Mr. S. E. Scott, Master Commissioner, shows traces of his dual relation by being one of the best Democrats in the county, and for the agency with which he can defend his every principle, political, social and religious.

A Patent For Administering Medicine to Horses.

Dr. C. C. Hooker, of this city, our well known Veterinary Surgeon, has patented a device for administering powders to horses, cattle, sheep and other animals. The present method is to roll the medicine in a ball and force it down with the hand. The Doctor's invention consists of a conical-shaped chamber having a trap door controlled by a slide, this receptacle is operated by a rod which with pressure opens the trap-door and expels the contents of the cylinder into the throat or stomach of the animal. Dr. Hooker is a graduate of the Ontario Veterinary College, and has practiced eight years in this city. His invention will prove a bonanza, we hope.

The Law of Treason.

The treason law seems to be little understood by the people. It is simply this. When a land owner posts notices on his property no man has a right to go upon it without permission. If he does so it is a trespass and liable to proceedings against him at law. Of course an action must be for damages, something that would not be apparent from passing through woodland or uncultivated fields, but the law recognizes such a thing as nominal damages, and justifies the rendering of judgment for the plaintiff, thus putting the cost of proceedings on defendant trespasser. An honest hunter will not go upon the lands protected by notices without the permission of the owner.

Suicide of Albert Schilling.

Albert Schilling, a well known First street merchant, who has been operating a restaurant and grocery for a number of years, took a dose of carbolic acid on Monday night and before medical assistance could reach him he was dead. His wife says that as was her husband's custom, he came home from his store about three o'clock in the morning, and before he retired went into the kitchen for a drink of water. He then retired and soon began to groan. Mrs. Schilling tried to arouse him, but received no response. She awakened Emilie Lorisch, who slept up stairs, and he ran for Dr. Roberts. Before he had shut the front gate Mr. Schilling breathed his last without having spoken. Mrs. Schilling later discovered a cup containing a small portion of carbolic acid—it was this cup out of which he took the fatal draught. The carbolic acid had been kept in the house for months as a disinfectant and it was in easy reach. No cause is given, except that for some weeks the deceased has been unhappy over domestic affairs, not, however, connected with his immediate family. He leaves a wife and two children. His wife was Miss Laura Plantier, of this county.

Albert Schilling was 36 years of age and came here from Germany with his mother, brother and sister, Mrs. Everett Barry, nee Miss Anna Schilling, seventeen years ago. Interment to-day at 3 o'clock in the Cemetery. Services at the grave.

Willis-De Jarrette.

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. Josia B. Willis was crowded with friends last Wednesday afternoon to witness the marriage of their daughter, Nannie De Jarrette Willis, to Mr. Daniel Coleman DeJarrette, of Bowling Green, Caroline county, Virginia. The spacious double parlor where the wedding occurred was decorated in a most effective manner. The lace curtains, mantel, windows and folding doors were beautifully bedecked with white lilies and ferns. Roses of cream and pink bedecked in profusion, whet a large and artistically constructed bell of lilies and ferns was suspended from the center of the room. Under this the couple took the vows that made them man and wife. The attendants were Miss Sue De Jarrette and Mr. John Arnold; it was a most beautiful ceremony which Elder W. R. Lloyd, of the Christian Church pronounced, a purely Biblical union service, and it was with ease and solemnity. After the ceremony the happy couple proceeded to the depot and departed at once for their home in old Virginia. The crowd lingered to inspect the many beautiful presents which were given to the bride's friends. Many were the expressions of affection and friendship that accompanied the articles of usefulness and ornament, attesting the warm place which the bride held in the hearts of Richmond people. Certain it is there are few nobler young women than this unselfish, thoughtful, of others, tender hearted, and true to her friends, there has gone from among us a happy hearted girl who knew no one save to add some brightness to that one's life. May the new friends she will make learn to appreciate the excellent quality of this favorite among her sex here, and may her life be ever as bright and happy as it always was under the family roof.

The union of these young people reunites two branches of an old family of Virginia, the ancestors of the bride (whose mother was formerly Miss Pat DeJarrett of this county) having emigrated from Virginia in 1795.

The DeJarretts are of French descent and were one among the many Huguenot families that escaped from France during the persecution that followed the revocation of the Edict of Nantes, in the sixteenth century. The groom still owns and lives upon the ancestral place of his family, the place upon which his ancestors settled on their arrival in this country. He is a son of ex-congressman, D. C. DeJarrette, deceased, who was a personal friend of President Grant and who resigned his seat in the United States Congress to become a Confederate Congressman. He was also sent in 1871, by President Grant as Commissioner to England to make negotiations concerning the boundary line between Maryland and Virginia.

A Saturday Killing.

Saturday seems to be the fatal day for negro fights in Richmond. Within a year a half dozen serious altercations have occurred between brothers of the colored race on that day. Last Saturday, pursuant to the custom, a difficulty occurred on First street between Jim Hall and John Tribble which resulted in the former's death at the hands of the latter, the weapon used being a pistol. Tribble is in jail, and may be tried in this court. He has retained Hous. J. W. Caperton, W. B. Smith, and Messrs. J. C. and D. M. Chennault to defend him.

To Revive the Kentucky Inter-Collegiate Athletic Association.

Central University has started a movement to revive the Kentucky Inter-collegiate Athletic Association, which went to pieces two years ago, and its official organ, the Central News. In a leading article makes a strong appeal to the five Blue Grass colleges, State, Centre, and Georgetown, Kentucky and Central Universities, to unite in the formation of a league, the object of which is to promote college athletics in Kentucky and arrange for an annual athletic tournament, in which representatives from all the colleges holding membership can compete for supremacy. Central University has appointed a committee to confer with representatives from the other colleges and take some action in regard to the matter. Some time during the Christmas holidays a meeting of the southern Inter-collegiate League will be held at Birmingham, Ala., which time a session will be made to lift the embargo from Centre College, Danville caused by that institution violating the rules of the league by taking non-matriculates into their foot ball team. This will place the Blue Grass colleges on an equal footing and pave the way for the easy consummation of the plan, which, it is believed, will meet the approbation of nine-tenths of those interested in the progress of college athletics in Kentucky.

Chancellor L. H. Bantam, of Central University, is heartily in favor of the movement, and will be one of a delegation of five to go to Birmingham to urge action in regard to Centre and offer some suggestions for the revision of the rules which the Kentucky Association will adopt.
